

3 Steps to Survive a Radiation Incident

Take these actions to protect yourself if you are in the area where a dirty bomb or nuclear reactor incident occurs:

Step 1: GET INSIDE

Cover mouth and nose against radioactive dust. Go inside a building, close windows, and turn off ventilation.

Step 3: GET INFORMED

Wait for further instructions from emergency responders to determine when it is safe to exit the building. Use social media from reliable sources to obtain updated information.

Step 2: GET CLEAN

Remove exterior clothing that may have touched radioactive dust. Place in plastic trash bag and store away from you.

Take a shower to wash hair and skin that may have touched radioactive dust.

If you must leave the building prior to receiving instructions, protect yourself by covering your skin, mouth, and nose, and quickly move upwind of the event.